RISC
Software GmbH

We have been fusing software engineering, mathematics, agility, research and technology into a unique total package for almost 30 years. As a non-university research institution, we do not work for maximum financial profit, we want to contribute our part to a better world. From basic research for start-ups, application-oriented research & development and long-term engineering projects for international corporations, we offer a variety of tasks for our employees.

For this passionate team of enthusiasts we are looking for a

Backend Developer (m/f/d)
Java/Web

YOU WANT...
- To work on modern web projects
- to be a full part of an agile team
- to work as a Technical Lead-Developer
- flexible time management & home office
- you want to challenge yourself with exciting tasks from different domains
- you want to participate in employee events
- Technical and personal development

YOU HAVE...
- a technical education with at least 3 years of work experience
- solid experience with current backend technologies (Java, Spring Boot)
- worked regularly with Kubernetes as well as designed microservice-architectures
- knowledge of NoSQL databases
- a high demand on quality, security and scalability
- you have a communicative, committed personality with good time management skills

YOU KNOW...
- Clean Code Principles
- Domain Driven Softwaredesign
- Test-Driven Development
- SCRUM or Kanban

APPLY ONLINE AT:
https://risc-software.at/bewerbungsformular/

The gross minimum salary for this full-time position (38.5h/week) is €42.000 p.a. according to the IT collective agreement.
The actual salary is of course based on previous professional experience and expertise.

Our Benefits

Flextime

Snacks

Home Office

Sports & Health

Team Events

Sustainable mobility possibilities

Training & Education

Buddy System